I 💖 teaching

How I got into teaching

- I studied Design & Animation

- I was lucky enough to have great mentors

- I wanted others to have the same experience that I had

Teaching is probably the most selfish thing you can do!

– based on a quote by Tal Ben-Shahar [1]

[1] extracted from Michele Guidos talk at JSConf 2014 – It Takes a Village to Make a Programmer

- You will get to know new people all the time

- You will probably learn more than your students

- You will get inspired and taught yourself every day

If you care about something: teach it - and your life will change forever

— @etiene_d

Where is the 💩?

I am a university lecturer

Why universities usually suck

- The academic system is not inclusive at all

- It is based on a 200 year old philosophy

Blame good old Humboldt for that, or…

You can change this!

You do not need a PhD to teach!

You do not need to be an academic at all!

You should teach what you are really into

- Frontend: JavaScript → io.js, ES6

- Backend: Ruby on Rails, Sinatra, Capistrano

- Tooling → Github, Browserify, Travis CI, ...

- TDD, BDD

- Operations → *NIX, Docker, ...

Things you can help us with

- Be a mentor

- Offer paid internships

- Give talks, e.g. @Barcamp Salzburg, .concat() conference

- and …

Teach at my university

Talk to me @eliias

Thank You

Links

- MultiMediaTechnology – Web Development

- University of Applied Sciences – Salzburg